

Spectres of Narcotrafficking
in Latin American Television

Juan Llamas-Rodriguez
University of Texas at Dallas

juan.llamasrodriguez@utdallas.edu
@llamasjr

VARIETY

FILM

TV

MUSIC

TECH

POLITICS

THEATER

HOME > TV > NEWS

SEPTEMBER 16, 2017 8:31AM PT

'Narcos' Location Scout Shot and Killed in Mexico

La violencia en México supera a la ficción

Un gerente de locaciones de la serie 'Narcos' es asesinado en el centro del país cuando buscaba sitios para el rodaje

---

1.- Narco-series as
Televsual Neoliberalism

2.- The “Spectre” of Narcotrafficking

Narco-series as Televisual
Neoliberalism

PRIMERA TEMPORADA

El Cartel

de los sapos

contiene
6 dvds

ESTRENO MUNDIAL

EL CHAPO

DOMINGO 23 DE ABRIL
8PM/7C

el SEÑOR de los CIELOS

Sin
tetas
NO HAY
paraíso

The “Spectre” of
Narco-trafficking

'Narcos' Death Has TV Scouts Questioning Risky Assignments

'Narcos' Death Has TV Scouts Questioning Risky Assignments

Both deaths are the subject of uneasy conversations among Hollywood's scouting community.

"The producers on Narcos, if they're the ones who sent him out there to scout and go there, that was reckless on their part," says Eric Hooge, a scout who has worked on the Fast & Furious franchise and Superman Returns. "And it was reckless for him to agree to it. Why shoot a TV show in some of the worst areas of Mexico? That's insane to me."

Hooge says that while the deaths of Portal and French generated a lot of bad publicity, scouts log countless thousands of hours all over the world, largely without incident.

DAILY BEAST

NETFLIX

CARTEL WATCH

Why'd It Take Netflix So Long to Know 'Narcos' Scout Was Dead?

Thank you.

Juan Llamas-Rodriguez
University of Texas at Dallas

juan.llamasrodriguez@utdallas.edu
@llamasjr